

Yusef Wray, Ivy Birchall, Casey Walsh

Niche:

- Niche has a wide variety of rankings that include infrastructure, demographics, cost of living, crime rates, etc.
- Niche has a very encompassing evaluation of neighborhoods.

DNA info:

- DNA Info only provides information on crime rates in neighborhoods, and does not rank any other factors such as transportation, local attractions, and so forth.
- DNA Info has very narrow rankings and doesn't take much into consideration

Street advisor:

- Street Advisor has fairly encompassing rankings of neighborhoods, and looks at factors such as local demographics, types of environments, transportation, and things to do.
- Street Advisor takes into consideration a lot of factors and allows users to select preferences as to what they value most in a neighborhood.

Rake Underground:

- Rake Underground provides information on transportation, events, and affordability.
- Rake considers many factors, but not as many factors as Street Advisor and Niche does.

Curbed

- Curbed provides information on transportation and infrastructure of neighborhoods.
- Curbed does take more factors into consideration than DNA Info and Rake but again, not as many as Niche and Street Advisor.

Above all, Niche is a more encompassing and good overall ranking of NYC neighborhoods.

Desirable Qualities in NYC neighborhoods:

- Affordable transportation
- Diverse neighborhood
- Variety of attractions and activities
- Housing costs
- Low crime rates
- Good school district

Three Most Important Qualities:

- Safety, as almost all highly ranked neighborhoods are safe, and unsafe neighborhoods are never desirable places to live.
- Affordability, as mid-range housing attracts a more diverse group of people to live in the neighborhood.
- Things to do, because it gives people a reason to want to live in the neighborhood and makes it a more popular area.